

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for interfacing between first and second successive stages of an ASIC synthesis tool, wherein output data is received at an output of the first stage, script files are automatically generated and fed together with the output
5 data to the second stage for processing the output data in accordance with information contained in the script files.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176